What will shape the future in packaging?

As the demand for variable data printing increases and the quality of digital printing improves, the world of packaging will be directly impacted by these changes.

Packaging is defined as a fashion and it's more of an art when we are talking about consumer products.

Packaging will not only be a form of art to enhance the product on shelf, but also seamlessly integrate with technology to enhance its value to the end user.

Who should attend?

This seminar is created for Packaging Printers, Brand Owners, Brand Marketers, Innovation Managers, Product Managers, Retail Marketers, Packaging Design Agency, Creative Directors, Packaging Development / Specialist, etc.
