www.packindo.org

Dear Participants,

Today market demands are getting stronger for packaging development supporting a sustainable society. Packaging must perform well in all dimensions of sustainability. The need for packaging has been 'long-lasting/sustainable' but the design, materials, styles and function have evolved and developed tremendously over the years.

Impact of sustainability on the packaging industry, an overview of the environment legislation and standards in Asia should be in compliance with, particularly in the world's largest market: China.

In Indonesia, the ongoing Food Packaging Legislation was posing a considerable challenge for the packaging industry. Despite these barriers, the government passed a sweeping change to previously fragmented Food Contact Packaging Legislation, covering domestic and imported food packaging. It is to come into implementation now.
